

Query ID: test1451

Query Text: where do they get the hair for a hair transplant

Retrieved Documents:

|   |           |                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|---|-----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1 | doc51691  | Hair transplantation. Hair transplantation is a surgical technique that removes hair follicles from one part of the body, called the 'donor site', to a bald or balding part of the body known as the 'r |
| 1 | doc51695  | Hair transplantation. Transplant operations are performed on an outpatient basis, with mild sedation (optional) and injected local anesthesia. The scalp is shampooed and then treated with an antibacte |
| 0 | doc51697  | Hair transplantation. There are two main ways in which donor grafts are extracted today: strip excision harvesting, and follicular unit extraction.                                                      |
| 0 | doc51698  | Hair transplantation. Strip harvesting is the most common technique for removing hair and follicles from a donor site. The surgeon harvests a strip of skin from the posterior scalp, in an area of good |
| 0 | doc51701  | Hair transplantation. With Follicular Unit Extraction or FUE harvesting, individual follicular units containing 1 to 4 hairs are removed under local anesthesia; this micro removal typically uses tiny  |
| 0 | doc51705  | Hair transplantation. Follicular unit transplant (FUT) is the traditional hair transplant method which involves extracting a linear strip of hair bearing skin from the back or the side of the scalp. T |
| 1 | doc51708  | Hair transplantation. If donor hair numbers from the back of the head are insufficient, it is possible to perform body hair transplantation (BHT) on appropriate candidates who have available donor hai |
| 0 | doc865324 | Hair follicle. Hair follicles form the basis of the two primary methods of hair transplantation in hair restoration, Follicular Unit Transplantation (FUT) and follicular unit extraction (FUE). In each |
| 0 | doc83001  | Pattern hair loss. More advanced cases may be resistant or unresponsive to medical therapy and require hair transplantation. Naturally occurring units of one to four hairs, called follicular units, ar |
| 0 | doc51702  | Hair transplantation. FUE takes place in a single long session or multiple small sessions. The FUE procedure is more time consuming than strip surgery. An FUE surgery time varies according to the surg |

Non-retrieved Relevant Documents: